

Peace – The “MFB - Levels Coherence” indicator is a new approach to Session Open trading that was created to help keep the mind focused, while price creates new internal liquidity areas (opening ranges).

“Long Story Longer” – I was reading the Inner Game of Golf (and tennis) books, and I realized that maybe if a trader could keep “Self 1” busy (the voice that likes to give instructions, to judge results, and control trading sessions into eventual strategy system switching) working with something constructive - like monitoring the location of new opening range liquidity levels (in relation to Key levels – “External liquidity”), that might then create space to allow the “Self 2” (natural potential) to find a more “Easy does it” Flow state with the trading session.

At least, that is the idea :o)

In my chats with ChatGPT, the word “Coherence” was used, and I liked it.

The psychology goal is about changing a trading session vibe from:

“Oh, wait, the 15 min opening range high is near a key level...”

To.....

A “Re-framing” of thought to something constructive – (“Continuous improvement” – like the “Inner Game of Tennis” teaches)

More like:

“Nice! 15 min opening range high is near a key level! Excellent! Maybe a reversal opportunity, or if price get accepted beyond the ‘confluence’ of the internal and external liquidity levels, then there may be a continuation...peace!”

Maybe with “Coherence” regarding the relationship between new liquidity levels (opening ranges -15 min – 30 min -1 hr - Initial Balance – “I.B.”), and Key levels (External Liquidity – London High/low – Asia High/low – Previous Daily and Weekly high/low), the trading session could be more organized, successful and peaceful (Even a fun discovery of market behavior journey).

It’s always about asking questions, like a scientist – keeping things mechanical.

Where are the most recent liquidity levels in relation to key liquidity levels? (Internal and External liquidity)

Then –

Is price being “Accepted” beyond a level, or “Absorbed” and reversing back into an opening range level?

The FVG-123 signal tells us about “Acceptance”.

Patience is the edge –

The process is the win (peace) –

The following is the “Quant – Luxalgo” description -

MFB - Levels Coherence

The MFB - Levels Coherence indicator acts as an active Session Guide, designed to cut through the noise of intraday volatility by highlighting only the highest-quality trade setups. Instead of taking every FVG-123 trade indiscriminately, this tool discerns the most probable market direction by analyzing the immediate relationship between the most recent session's Opening Ranges (Internal Liquidity) and significant historical boundaries (External Liquidity).

How It Works as Your Session Guide:

As each session unfolds (Asia, London, NY Open, etc.), the indicator plots and extends the 15-minute, 30-minute, and 1-hour Opening Range highs and lows. It then actively measures the proximity of these fresh, intraday boundaries against higher-timeframe structures like Previous Daily Highs/Lows and Monthly levels.

By reading this "coherence," the indicator guides you into two specific market narratives:

- The Sweep/Reversal Guide (Confluence AOI): When the current session's Opening Range forms tightly against a major External Liquidity level, it identifies a cluster of liquidity. The guide anticipates a trap. If price sweeps this clustered zone, rejects it, and forms an FVG-123 back inside the range, it signals a high-probability Reversal.
- The Continuation Guide (Pathway Mode): When the Opening Range boundaries form freely in open space, far from any historical levels, it identifies a clean pathway. If price breaks and accepts outside the Opening Range, the guide recognizes a genuine momentum shift. It waits for an FVG-123 in the direction of the breakout to signal a high-probability Continuation toward the next distant target.

The Core Advantage:

By framing your entries around the immediate context of Opening Range formation, the MFB - Levels Coherence indicator prevents you from trading every FVG-123—ensuring you are always aligned with the true intent of the current session's liquidity narrative. Peace -